VERBAL DESCRIPTION:

This is a doughnut stone possibly made of limestone. It is more square than most others I have seen. The diameter of the hole, which is oriented more towards the left as it is drawn but in the center up and down, is 5.5 cm on the surface and diminishes to 2.5 in the middle before expanding out again at the back. The top edge as it is drawn is somewhat flat, instead of rounded like the other two sides. ^{all} and right edges
